*PTP is a tax-exempt, Social Profit,
Non-partisan 501(c)(3) Corporation,
Tax-exempt I.D.# 68-0015625.*

Pathways To Peace (PTP) is an international PeaceBuilding, Educational, and Consulting organisation. The mission of Pathways To Peace is threefold:

- to expand the comprehension and substantive expression of “PEACE” and PeaceBuilding practices at all levels;
- to build Cultures of Peace by uniting and enhancing the strengths of existing organisations and programs along eight paths to Peace;
- to contribute, through consultation and direct participation, to the evolving mission of the United Nations and to citizens’ worldwide participation in the International Day of Peace (Peace Day).

The Pathways To Peace mission is accomplished through projects and consulting services. Current projects include: *Culture of Peace Initiative, Institute for Peacebuilding, the Joan Kenley Show, IDP Vigil, Peace Day Calendar Program, Events with Peace Leaders, P*A*C*E*M – Pathways Consulting, Educating, Mentoring.*

PTP project example: Institute for Peacebuilding (IPB) works with schools in the San Francisco Bay Area to bring an experience and understanding of Peacebuilding practices through assemblies, classes, and teacher training. IPB offers a university course called The Art and Practice of PeaceBuilding, and leads community PeaceBuilding workshops and weekend retreats. This Project has reached youth in over 70 countries. Media Project: The Joan Kenley Show – Conversation Radio – for the mind, body, heart, and soul. This program is dedicated to delving more deeply into what really matters, offering timely topics and action ideas that range from the personal to the global. Collaborative projects have included: Rights of the Child Caucus, World Summit of Children, and United Peoples Assembly. Affiliates include: EarthDance International, Ehama Institute, Global Youth Action Network, Institute for Multi-Track Diplomacy, Peace Alliance Foundation, United Religions Initiative, and World Centers of Compassion for Children.

On a global scale, PTP serves as International Secretariat for the Culture of Peace Initiative (CPI) (formerly, “WE THE PEOPLES” INITIATIVE), a multicultural, intergenerational, citizens movement of established groups and organisations cooperating to build a Culture of Peace and to make Peace a practical reality in the 21st Century. Granted official “Peace Messenger Initiative” status by the U.N., this PeaceBuilding Initiative contributes to the evolving mission of the U.N. and to the direct participation of young people in strategic decisions affecting the quality of life for the children of this and future generations. International Peace Day (Peace Day) September 21st is the annual period for Participating Organisations to highlight local/global progress toward Peace along diverse paths.

“Peace,” as defined by Pathways To Peace, is both an innate state of being and a dynamic, evolving process. Peace begins with ourselves; living in harmony with one another, the Earth, and all Circles of Life. PTP’s operating principle-in-action is:

Acting in concert, we do make a difference in the quality of our lives, our institutions, our environment and our planetary future. Through cooperation, we manifest the essential spirit that unites us amidst our diverse ways.

Envisioned in 1945, Pathways To Peace initiated research and development in integrative decision-making in 1962, began consulting in the early 1970’s, and was incorporated in 1983. PTP has Consultative Status with the United Nations (ECOSOC), (DPI). PTP was granted official UN Peace Messenger status in 1987.
